Editors Dispatch: A dispute arose a few days ago between the writer and a friend as to the grammatical correctness of the following sentence: "The crown of virtue is peace and honor." We contend that the sentence is correct as it now reads, but our friend thicks "are" should take the place of "is." We have agreed to submit the subject to your decision, and hope you will do us the kindness to reply in the next issue of your valuable paper.

Very truly yours, RICHMOND, April 28, 1880.

The neuter verb "to be" may have the sage case after as before it-that is to say, to the above sentence "virtue" is in the nominative case to "is," and "peace and bonor" are also in the nominative case to rily follows that the use of either the verb "is" or the verb "are" would be grammatically correct in that sentence. In the sentence "the wages of sin is death" "are" might be substituted for "is," according to an 17 the same rule, though "is" is the word used in the New Testament. In this latter

I doubt if your correspondent is correct in his objections to the granite used on streets. It he had driven on the roads in the suburbs of Richmond, or even on Broad street, during the late winds, he would have found as much dust as on streets where the granite is used. I think he is decidedly wrong in advising a combination of sand, colay, and gravel. If he will travel on Reservoir street (to the old reservoir) he will servoir street (to the old reservoir) he will find what sort of street it makes. After the least rain it is sticky and muddy, and soon works into ruts from the yielding of the clay to wheels. This street was finely gravelled by the military authorities of "Camp Grant," well raised in the middle, and was a fine roadway. Since our city authorities have taken charge of it, it has been generally in wretched condition. rally in wretched condition. OBSERVER.

It is estimated that the Hiff estate now owns about 39,000 head of cattle of all ages. It includes eight ranches, the principal one being 160 miles in length by 60 miles in width. They are situated between the Union-Pacific railroad and the South Platte river, and reach westward to the foot hills, including portions of Colorado, Wyoming, and Nebucks. and Nebraska. Within the past two years there have been added to the herd by purchase 17,000 cattle from Texas, while the calves branded within that time number about 8,000 head. Within the same period 25.021 have been marketed for beef, and 17.000 will be marketed this year. The value of the estate is estimated at $1,500,-

The drive of cattle from Texas will be beavier this year than ever before, and has been estimated at 300,000, of which Nebraska will get a large percentage. Many of the stockmen of Western Nebraska are now making preparations to add largely to their herds of Texas cattle. Ogallala is the natural terminus of the Texas cattle trail, and will be the objective point this year.
Of the cattle coming to that immediate Of the cattle coming to that immediate vicinity, the Sidney Telegraph mentions the following: Pennsylvania Stock Company, 3,000 head; Jones Brothers, 2,300 head; James Reed, Texas, 6,000 head; James Reed, Texas, 3,000 head; John Dawson, Texas, 3,000 head; Andrews Brothers, Texas, 2,500 head; Audrews Brothers, Texas, 2,500 head; J. W. Gamel, Running Water, Neb., 5,000 head; D. R. Fant, Texas and Nebrasia Company of the Comp braska, 6,000 head. Millett, Mabry, and E. B. Cook, Salesman. many other well-known stockmen will also bring eattle up on the trail for disposal in that vicinity. Not only Cheyenne county, but nearly all of Sioux county, is now being used for grazing purposes, and our est-tlemen are even converting portions of Dates and our cattlemen are even converting portions of Dates and our cattlemen are even converting portions of Dates and the stock ranges.
